PREFACE

The size and prosperity of an economy can be assessed by the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) / State Domestic Product (SDP) / District Domestic Product (DDP) as the case may be. The above mentioned estimates analyzed by industry of use i.e. Agriculture & Allied, Industry and Service and also Sector wise i.e. Primary, Secondary and Tertiary, depict the actual scenario of an economy where it moves.

The Per Capita SDP is very useful measure of a State's economic health. True, neither it can accurately capture some vital aspects of human welfare like the health and educational standards of the society, nor does it take environmental degradation into account, but it is still believed to be the best single parameter of a region's generation of income.

In view of that, an accurate estimate about the SDP of the State is needed and also accurate sectoral data are important to reveal the structural changes in the economy over time.

Another reason why we need to have accurate SDP data is that the devolution of funds from the Centre to the States depends on SDP to a significant extent.

Besides this, for planning and policy purposes, it is important to know the standard of living of the people at the grass root level. So some indicators on economic activities at that level are required and at this juncture, estimates of District Domestic Product (DDP) along with Per Capita Income (PCI) at District level are thought to be two of the most important indicators.

This publication is the last publication at base 2004-05.

In this report, estimates of SDP and DDP of West Bengal have been compiled both at current and constant (2004-05) prices. Here, SDP has been discussed with respect to the Fiscal Years 2012-13(P), 2013-14(Q) and 2014-15(A) respectively and DDP has been discussed with respect to the Fiscal Years 2012-13(P) and 2013-14(Q). Again, Comparative Study among the selected States, All India and West Bengal has been made for the year 2013-14(Q).

I am thankful to the officials of National Accounts Division, Central Statistics Office, Government of India and different State Government Departments, Public Undertakings and Local Government Bodies for their active co-operation in making available the requisite data for preparation of the aforesaid estimates.

The efforts of the staff and officers of the Industrial Statistics Office of the Bureau of Applied Economics & Statistics under the Department of Statistics & Programme Implementation deserve appreciation for preparing this Report. I hope, this publication would be of great use and any suggestions from users will enrich this report in the years to come.

1. Introduction

The State Domestic Product (SDP) /District Domestic Product (DDP) at factor cost is regarded as the most important single economic indicator to measure the growth and pattern of economic development of a state or a district. SDP is a reflection of economic development of the State and the Per Capita Income is a suitable measure of the well-being of its people. The per capita Income for State and District represent the welfare and level of living of the residents of a State and district. These measures also provide an idea of regional disparities. The indicators like Per Capita State Income are now frequently used by the Finance Commission (FC) for devolution of a part of plan resources and distribution of proceeds of central taxes to different States.

The indicators on economic activities at regional levels are often required by the central and State authorities as well as research institutions for planning and policy purposes and also to know the development as well as levels of living of the people. Estimates of income of a district (DDP) is thought to be one of the most important indicator to measure the economic growth/development of a district and the estimates of Per Capita Income in the district is considered to be the indicator to measure the level / standard of living of the inhabitants of the district. Preparation of DDP has recently gained added importance, as it is one of the three indicators to construct a composite Human Development Index (HDI) for inclusion in the Human Development Report being prepared by some of the States of India.

The present series of estimates of Gross and Net Domestic Product of West Bengal uses 2004-05 as base year. The estimates for the year 2004-05 onwards have been revised incorporating the updated information supplied by Central Statistics Office (CSO), Government of India and different departments of Government of West Bengal.

According to the Revision Policy (as available in www.mospi.gov.in), the estimates of Gross State Domestic Product for the years 2012-13(P) and 2013-14(Q) have been revised on account of use of latest available data on agriculture, livestock, forestry, fishery, mining, industrial production especially from Annual Survey of Industries, 2012-13 (P) in lieu of the Index of Industrial Production for registered manufacturing sector, Government expenditure replacing Revised Estimates with Actual for the year 2012-13 and 2013-14 and also detailed and more comprehensive data available from various Departments of the State. Besides this, from Annual Reports of Non-Departmental Commercial Undertakings, Gross Value Added (GVA) have been compiled for Electricity, Gas, Construction, Trade & Transport sectors. Again, Central Statistics Office (CSO) provides data on Agriculture(partly), Autonomous bodies for education, health services, Central NDCUs for Construction sector and Supra regional sector (Railways, Banking and Communication) etc. In some cases, estimates are achieved by indicators like Index of Industrial Production of Mining, Electricity, Manufacturing and indicator prepared for Construction sector obtained from Index of Industrial Production as guided by CSO. Again Implicit Price Deflators like WPI and CPI-IW are used as indicator.

Under the current system of preparation of estimates for Budget of coming financial year, the advance estimate of Gross Domestic Product (GDP)/Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) for ongoing financial year is a crucial measure. In Advance estimates, Forecast data on Agriculture, Forestry & Fishing have been used. In Industry, estimates are moved by indicators like Index of Industrial Production of Mining, Electricity, Manufacturing and Construction as guided by CSO. For IIP, data regarding coal has been received from Indian Bureau of Mines (IBM) and office of the Coal Controller and that on generation of electricity has been received from Central Electricity Board. In Service sector the expenditure (Actual, Revised & Budget Estimate) of State Government are obtained from State Budget and some appropriate indicators are used in other cases for estimation of GSDP as per guidance of CSO. Again, indices like WPI and CPI-IW are used to achieve estimates at current/constant prices. Methodology of compiling Advance Estimates is available in the Website of MOSPI.
